

Mónika Mátay (PhD 2003) is an Associate Professor at the Institute of History at Eötvös Loránd University and a permanent fellow at iASK, Kőszeg. She has been visiting scholar at several higher educational institutions, including Duke University, North Carolina, the State University of Rutgers, New Jersey, Humboldt University, Berlin, Central European University, Budapest, University of Trieste, among others. She has taught international students in the Erasmus Program, the Education Abroad Program of the University of California and at ISES in Kőszeg. She has done several research projects on modern social and cultural history, human inheritance (talkinghouseseurope.com), the history of crime (arsenic poisoning epidemic in interwar Hungary), marginalized social groups, gender and the media. Her list of publication includes a monograph on private conflicts between men and women, edited volumes on crime in turn of the century Budapest, book chapters and articles on various topics from reviewing the modern European public sphere to the role of Hungarian highwaymen. She has received several scholarships, including the National Excellence Scholarship, TÁMOP, the Bolyai Research Scholarship, Hungarian Academy of Science, the Summa Artium Scholarship for book publication, and George Soros scholarships. She also serves as the founding member of the Gender Studies Centre at ELTE and editor of the quarterly academic journal, Médiakutató (Media researcher).

Selected publications:

Méregkeverők (Poisoners) Ed. Budapest: Korall, 2016.

Törvényszéki játszmák. Válás Debrecenben 1793–1848 (Games at the Court: Divorce in Debrecen 1793–1848). Debrecen: Csokonai, 2006.

Hogyan lehet egy író analfabéta (How can a writer be illiterate?), In Lukács, István – Majoros István (Ed) Közép-Európai arcképcsarnok 20. század (Central-European portraits 20th-century). Budapest, ELTE BTK, 2018. 275–292

Történelemszemlélő/Putris Panni és arzénos társai (Historical selection/Panni Patris and her arsenic associates) <http://konyv.guru/> downloaded 07. 04. 2016.

Áldozatok a háború után. Arzénnel mérgezett veteránok (Victims after the war. Veterans poisoned with arsenic), In Majoros, István (Ed.) Sorsok, frontok, eszmék. Tanulmányok az első világháború 100. évfordulójára (Fates, battlefields, ideas. Essays for the 100th anniversary of the Great War). Budapest: ELTE BTK, 2015 (with Henrietta Trádler).

The Adventures of Dispute: a Marriage Crisis, Hungarian Historical Review 2014 (3) 158–189.

Hősfigurák a századfordulás ifjúsági irodalomban (Hero figures for youth in the turn of the century) In Gábos Erika (Ed.) A média hatása a gyermekekre és fiatalokra VII. (The influence of the media on children and young people VII.), Budapest, 2013.

Nora, Pierre, Emlékezet és történelem között. Válogatott tanulmányok (recenzió) (Nora, Pierre, Between memory and history. Collected essays (book review), Korall 2010.

Egy nődandy karrierje: képek Batthyány Appraxin Júlia életéből (A female dandy's career. The life story of Julia Batthyany Appraxin), In Bódy Zsombor – Horváth Sándor – Valuch Tibor (eds.): Megtalálható-e a múlt? Tanulmányok Gyáni Gábor 60. születésnapjára (Can the past be identified? Festschrift for Gabor Gyani's 60th anniversary), Budapest: Argumentum, 2010. 194–202.

Haza a laposban. Egy 20. századi magyar család portréja Rákoskeresztúr – Kecskemét – Wellington (Új Zéland) viszonylatában (Portrait of a 20th century Hungarian family. From Rakoskeresztur to Wellington, New Zealand), Budapesti Negyed Fővárosi magántörténelem (Private history in the capital) 2010 (2) 49–80.

The adulterous wife and the rebellious husband: a marital dispute in a Calvinist city, Social History 2009, 34 (2) 145–162.

Hamis vénuszok: nődandyk a polgárok között (The Anatomy of the Female Dandy), In Bakó, Boglárka – Tóth, Eszter Zsófia, eds., Határtalan nők. Kizártak és befogadottak a magyar társadalomba (Women without Frontiers). Budapest: Historical Institute of the Hungarian Academy of Science, 2008. 394–411.

Multiple Lives of the Hungarian Highwayman. In Srebnick, Amy – Lévy, René, eds., Crime and Culture: Text and Context. Aldershot, UK, Ashgate: 2005. 183–198 (with György Csepeli).